

SIX impact

Empowering organisations to innovate

Working within and in addition to our other areas of impact, we enable and support organisations to innovate their culture and capacity in two ways.

We run several targeted training programmes that provide capacity-building training and support. We also build innovation capacity through partnerships.

Whether we are hosting an event together or designing a long term collaboration, our approach allows organisations to reflect on their internal structure, processes and strategies, and develop stronger networks and more collaborative, effective working cultures. For every partner, we provide and demonstrate a deep knowledge of network dynamics, tools, frameworks and trends of social innovation in both local and global contexts.

The University of Northampton

“Our work with SIX enabled us to review our curriculum across all subject areas and informed the embedding of social innovation in every one of our undergraduate programmes.”

“Working with SIX has been inspirational in engaging our students in the world of social innovation. Their ability to reach a global community of innovators has not only provided complex examples of what can be achieved through social innovation, it has sparked new ideas and commitment within our students to be the changemakers of the future. SIX’s openness to do things differently has helped structure our approach to social innovation across our student experience.

Our work with SIX enabled us to review our curriculum across all subject areas and informed the embedding of social innovation in every one of our undergraduate programmes. This means that all of our students will have the opportunity to experience what social innovation means to their subject area, and understand how they can address social problems through their applied learning. Our work with SIX has been instrumental in shaping our approach and informing this development.”

– Wray Irwin, Head of the University Centre for Employability and Engagement

Zorlu Holding

“Working with SIX was a way to kick off a new way of thinking, collaborating and working.”

“What is critical for Zorlu Holding is to become a business that has profound meaning to the young people of Turkey. We are perceived of as pioneers in technology and energy, but we aspire to relate to young people’s dreams, passions and values.

Everyone needs to find a new way of doing things, the old methods don’t allow people and organisations to progress into the future. Working with SIX on the Wayfinder was not just the start of a new way of doing business and collaborating with different stakeholders, but it also opened up and helped transform our internal culture. It was a way to kick off a new way of thinking, collaborating and working. This will not happen overnight, but the Wayfinder definitely triggered this new mindset within the Zorlu organisation. We are very keen on sustaining the collaboration with SIX and making social innovation the daily practice of our company.”
